

An externally connection type USB2.0 interface flash card reader comprising an insertion cassette housing, and a USB2.0 connection cable, characterized in that one end of the insertion cassette housing is provided with an insertion/connection hole allowing the insertion of various type of solid state flash cards externally to the insertion cassette housing, and connecting to USB ports of a host computer via the USB 2.0 card.

5